On July 16, 2007, Victor Torres-Morales was arrested by the Jersey City Police and charged with terroristic threats by brandishing a black handgun, possession of a handgun for unlawful purposes, and possession of a weapon.

The charges stem from a domestic dispute with his paramour which resulted in the offender allegedly brandishing a handgun and threatening her with bodily harm.

The offender has violated the supervision condition which states 'The defendant shall refrain from the illegal possession and/or use of drugs and shall submit to urinalysis or other forms of testing to ensure compliance. It is further ordered that the defendant shall submit to drug treatment, on an outpatient or inpatient basis, as directed by the U.S. Probation Office. The defendant shall abide by the rules of any program and shall remain in treatment until satisfactorily discharged with the approval of the U.S. Probation Office.'

On May 15, 2007, the offender submitted urine sample (C-00843287) which tested positive for morphine, codeine and hydromorphone via lab confirmation. The drug test was procured at the U.S. Probation Office.
